HAROLD LLOYD AT THE APOLLO.

PROGRAMS AT JANESVILLE THEATRES WEEK OF DEC. 31-JAN. 1.

MYERS.
Sunday, 12 p.m.—Midnight show ushering in New Year.
Monday through Thursday—"To Have and to Hold," Bert Lytell and Betty Compson.
Friday through Sunday—"Outcast," Blaise Cendrars.

BEVERLY.
Sunday through Tuesday—"The Masquerader," Guy Bates Post; and scenes of the San Francisco fire.
Wednesday and Thursday—"A Woman's Sacrifice," Corinne Griffith and "The Devil Within," Dustin Farnum.
Friday and Saturday—"Riders of the Dawn," and "The Timber Queen," Ruth Roland.

APOLLO.
Sunday, 12 p.m.—Midnight New Year's show.
Monday through Thursday—"Dr. Jack," Harold Lloyd.
Friday—Feature picture and vaudeville.
Saturday and Sunday—Vaudeville and comedies.

If the pictures to be seen here during the coming week are any foretaste of what the year holds, the coming 12 months will indeed be pleasant ones. Four of the biggest pictures of the past months are to be seen here, all in one week. In addition, there will be two separate vaudeville bills and two midnight shows to offer diversion to a world weary of festivity.

Christmas week was a good one for theater managers. The week before was a hard one, with everybody doing Christmas shopping, while Christmas day and the few following it saw theaters crowded for many shows.

AT THE MYERS.

Following closely on the heels of "When Knickerbocker Was in Flower" as far as production is concerned, "To Have and to Hold" will again offer that combination of romance in the form of a road love story full of thrills, and a stellar attraction that will be pleasing. The names of Lytell and Compson, especially in conjunction, would thrill any movie fan.

Hopes have been high for many months that Betty Compson would have a part suited to her ability, and now it seems that her career is about to reach a peak in the fulfillment of those hopes. For, in "To Have and to Hold" she plays the part of an English lady of high rank, haughty but lovely, who meets with many adventures in the American of Jamestown and the early sections in her attempt to secure a loveless marriage arranged by her guardian, King James I. Bert Lytell also plays an adventurous part, that of a young man of the colonies who saves the girl from the travances of the king and Lord Carnarvon, played by Theodore Kosloff. Excitement is one of the big attributes of the picture, sword fights, a duel, storms, sinking of a ship and other events figuring largely. Sets are on a grand scale, and the scale equal to those in the biggest pictures of the year.

There are few actresses on the screen who can make a good picture from any story, but it seems as if Blaise Cendrars is one of them. She is a dual, stormy, sinking of a ship and other events figuring largely. Sets are on a grand scale, and the scale equal to those in the biggest pictures of the year.

The story is not a "Pollianna" one, nor would a person wish to see Blaise Cendrars in a picture who did not match her type as does "Outcast." Much of the story can be judged by the one word title, while the surprising climax will please all fans.

All is in readiness for the midnight show Sunday, and plans are being made by many people, remembering the last year performance, to attend this new one, which promises to be even better.

AT THE BEVERLY.

Few pictures during 1922 received the welcome from critics and public as did "The Masquerader," the coming attraction at the picture who did not match her type as does "Outcast." Much of the story can be judged by the one word title, while the surprising climax will please all fans.

"A Woman's Sacrifice" is the story of a sacrifice of a daughter to save the honor of her mother. Set in the north, much opportunity is given for showing beautiful scenery, while in keeping with the general type of northern pictures, there is a good fight and some chasing.

Corinne Griffith, star of many types of pictures, has a new sort of role in "A Woman's Sacrifice," and plays it with her usual ability. "The Devil Within," starring Dustin Farnum, one of the best-like stars playing in western and northern pictures, is an exciting story of the son, Virginia Yull, Nick DeBrier, and others make up the excellent cast.

"Riders of the Dawn" is taken from that immensely popular book of Zane Grey's, "The Desert of Wheat," and will be as well liked as the others.

Continuation of "The Timber Queen" will occur the end of the week.

AT THE APOLLO.

The new year will at least be brought in with a laugh, and theater patrons will be giggling and laughing for four days over the clever antics of Harold Lloyd in his latest comedy, "Dr. Jack."

In spite of efforts of other comedians to rise to the top of all and to become the chief comedian, Harold Lloyd continues to hold that position securely and apparently without any work. But it is worth making such pictures as "Grandma's Boy" and "Dr. Jack" work for the brains in developing comic situations in providing a plot for it is one of the requisites that a Harold Lloyd picture have a plot, and work all the way through in making the picture—selecting a suitable cast and doing the other things attendant upon any motion picture.

Such a high point of comedy was reached in "Grandma's Boy" that it seemed impossible that Harold Lloyd should do anything to equal it. He himself admits that "Grandma's Boy" was his masterpiece, but hopes that this newest production of his contains just as many laughs, and perhaps some more.

"Dr. Jack" tells of the many funny adventures of an M. D. who prescribed music, smiles and laughter in place of the big pills with which his rival made everybody more ill than they had been before. There is love, earnest with the popular student Davies in the chief fumbling role. The usual funny characters that make Lloyd's comedies so much more amusing than they would otherwise be are seen. The picture will play here four days.

As a surprise for New Year's Eve, or rather New Year's morning, starting the minute 1923 begins, Manager Zanias is to have Milton Schuster.

The next issue of the Gazette will be in 1923. New Year—you spell it with capitals—is a holiday almost all the world over where our calendar is used. Other races and nations with other calendars celebrate the beginning of their year by ceremony, generally religious at least in part and often in hilarity and always with rejoicing. It also marks the end of the holiday season—one last big time—before going back to work. Good cheer, mutual felicitations, compliments of the day, mark the New Year. We close the books with the calendar and in all things begin anew. Life takes on a new aspect. The calendar itself warns of the flight of time and that what we are to accomplish must be done soon. Leaves are torn off far too rapidly. Age comes even for the careless and happy-go-lucky youth. There is a tremendous lot to do in this world for everyone.

In all the history of the world there has never been so important a year as 1923. All other years have passed and gone forever. They are dead save in memory and record, and chronicle. But 1923, day by day, is ours to make what we shall, to do with as we wish. We may be halted suddenly in the midst of the program, deflected by unseen currents and eddies, but the flight of time and that what we are to accomplish must be done soon. Leaves are torn off far too rapidly. Age comes even for the careless and happy-go-lucky youth. There is a tremendous lot to do in this world for everyone.

One may see life as Michael Angelo did the angel in the discarded block of marble. Others saw only a rejected stone; he saw within a beautiful allegorical figure. What do you see in 1923?

Arbuckle is quoting scripture to support his case. He should read Revelations 13:14.

THE OPPORTUNITY FOR MR. BLAINE.

John J. Blaine, of Boscebol and Madison, will be inaugurated for the second time as governor of Wisconsin on January 1. He will have a state administration so far as elective officers are concerned, entirely of his liking and of the same kind. He will have almost all members of commissions and bureaus to his liking also, for most of them have been appointed by him. In the assembly he will have a large majority of the membership elected on the same platform and marching under the same flag as he himself. He will not have so large a majority in the senate but enough perhaps to make possible any program he may wish to carry out. He was elected under promise of no particularly vicious or revolutionary legislation but the general feeling is that he and his legislature will rather a team of socialistic and destructive measures aimed largely at industry and resulting in hardships for every class of business.

But here Mr. Blaine has an opportunity as governor to stand between the people and the program of ruinous laws which threaten. The election of Mr. Blaine was accomplished without having a definite program on his part. He confined himself almost entirely to a few defenses of his own administration. His sole point of attack was on the secrecy clause in income taxation. He defended his pardons which had been numerous enough to demand attention of all the people of the state and were but little short of a public scandal. He was silent on the liquor question and like some others in the primary race attempted to minimize that issue either by silence or diplomatically dismissing it. He was supported by the liquor element and his election was hailed as a victory for the wets. That is hardly to be believed in spite of the recent attacks made upon the governor by his own factional organ and one of the two and only honest newspapers in the state, according to his speeches—attacks which have not been duplicated in bitterness or persistence. They have been instigated by laxity in enforcing the prohibition laws and the continued pardoning of liquor law violators.

The governor has therefore no pledges which will in any way disturb an orderly administration. If he except his secrecy clause, and he has the opportunity of making Wisconsin foremost in the union of states in the enforcement of the prohibition laws. He has the opportunity of harmonizing all the elements in business and activities of life that will make Wisconsin greater and more prosperous. He can do it if he will and be the leader in that movement which already has brought every interest in the state in greater and more harmonious contact. These diversified and interdependent interests make Wisconsin. No one can do this work or does it alone. Versatility in occupation and industry is the keynote to highest success and happiness in organized community life. We have it in Wisconsin. To attack one element for the elevation of the other is not the prerogative of a governor elected by the sovereign people of the state and who takes the oath of office to serve as governor—not of faction, but of everyone within the state boundaries.

Here is the great opportunity for the governor to be a really big man and go rise above mere faction and see something beyond the meretricious in legislation and administration for the next two years.

The most remarkable characteristic of Senator Borah is his consistent inconsistency.

It is a good time to get out that New Year's resolution of last January and brush it up for 1923.

Greeks Not Doing Greek Dancing

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.
Washington.—Not long ago, a program of various types of classic Greek art was being planned in one of our cities, and local Greek talent was hunted out to play the parts. Greeks who could perform in dramatic and musical numbers were not hard to find. But then came the question of dancing.

There was to be a dance given in the classic manner by real Greek maidens, who might be the direct descendants of the bacchantes and ceremonial dancers of old Athens, and the producers set out ingeniously to collect the Greek dancers of the city. They returned steeped in gloom. There were no Greek maidens who could do the ancient dances. So the Greek dance had to be left to young Americans with names reminiscent of ancestors from England, Wales, France, Denmark and Germany.

This incident has attracted attention to the fact that the recent enthusiasm for Greek dancing has scarcely touched Greece. The classic manner of dancing has been adopted of late years by dancers of America and also every country of Europe. But no outstanding exponents of the art have come from the original home of the classic dance.

A Greek was asked why the girls of his country have not been swept along in the revival of their celebrated art.

"It is not easy to say," he answered. "I believe the young girls in the schools have felt that the Greek dancers—they wear—how they wear—not so much clothing—and the girls have not wished to wear the old costume. But that is not, perhaps, so true now. And I know Isadora Duncan had some Greek pupils when she danced in my country, and there are no doubt a few girls there who are interested in the classic dance."

This modern Greek man conveyed the impression, however, that the modern Greek maiden would still be a bit shocked to think of herself in the garb of her ancestors. Visions of status wearing a thin layer of drapery, and that none too securely arranged, seemed to flash before the eyes of the very completely dressed young Greek of the drawing room.

Isadora Duncan's latest appearances in flowing and disappearing drapery would seem to support this young man's idea that inadequate costumes are a necessary part of the classic dance. Miss Duncan is one of the leaders in the revival of classic dancing and her example has far-reaching results among other naturalistic dancers.

But some dancers of the classic school boldly disagree with Miss Duncan's point of view. They explain that while the ancient Greeks danced in no filmy garments or even in no garments at all, one was shocked by their appearance. The minds of the people were adjusted to a different set of conventions from those obtaining today. Perfection of the human body was as casually admired then as a beautiful face is now.

These dancers say that while the sense of freedom gained from wearing light drapery is desirable in dancing, some concessions should be made to custom. Too abbreviated or diaphanous a costume, even if worn with the most artistic of intentions, gains the interest of the modern audience at the expense of the dance itself. Instead of costume, dancer, setting, music and steps blending harmoniously, the clothing becomes a distraction. To the Greek audience this would not have been so, but the modern dancer cannot expect to overthrow in an afternoon the traditions of his time, the conservatives argue.

But after all, the costume should not be the most important part in the presentation of a classic dance. It seems strange that a detail of that sort could have stood between modern youths of Greece and a return to the dancing ideal of their famous ancestors.

Yet, when the Greeks dance today they do the latest ballroom steps, or occasionally at festivals, peasants perform national folk dances.

In one of the typical folk dances, the peasants join hands in a long chain. Many of the dancers are in modern dress. Some of the girls wear the voluminous peasant dress and some of the men wear the full white skirts and tight long-sleeved shirts of the national costume. They swing along in a simple step, keeping time to slow music. The leader waves a handkerchief and the rest of the line follows along, during the same rather monotonous step, around and around. These folk dances are said to bear a faint resemblance to the classic dances of Athens and Sparta, but the resemblance is vague.

The dances in honor of Athena, Diana, Hera, Dionysus, and Aphrodite were performed as expressions of deep religious feeling. In the highest period of Hellenic culture the dances were graceful and refined, and altogether artistic. It was only as Greece degenerated that the dances became abandoned.

The Greek folk dances are a far cry from the wild Bacchantes that are associated with the last stage of the classic dance. If the folk dances can be traced back at all it would be to the dignified professionals in the groves of some calm and stately deity.

Though diagrams and complete descriptions of steps have not come down to us, we are fairly certain of some features about the dances performed by the dance-loving Greeks. Homer, Plato, Pindar and other writers described the dances, and the rhythms of Greek poetry were occasionally employed to indicate the rhythms of a dance. In statues, paintings and bas reliefs, Greek artists depicted dancers.

Dancing naturally played a large part in the art of that time because it played a prominent part in everyday life. The religious feeling of the Greeks was largely expressed. Births and marriages were celebrated by dances, and at funerals grief was customarily shown by suitable pantomime.

Sculptured figures graphically show us the sort of dancing approved by the Greeks, and it is mainly to the work of the sculptors that modern naturalistic dancers have gone for their inspiration.

Studying the figures carefully, they have discovered secrets of poise, muscular tension, balance and grace that characterized the Greeks at the height of physical perfection. A figure on tiptoe with draperies swinging to one side and arms swung to the opposite side might suggest to some of us only a model posed by an artist in a graceful attitude. One student of dancing, Maurice Bonmarché, finds that such a pose represents the end of a twirl not unlike the pirouette of the ballet dancer.

The dance experts agree that the Greeks danced with the entire body, using the head, hands, arms, and torso to express their meaning. At first, we and torso to express their meaning. At first, we very definitely.

They depicted their emotions and thoughts so perfectly that the dancer of today often finds the highest possible self-expression in the poses that pleased Rhodius 2400 years ago.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

RICHER THAN BEFORE.

We've had our share of sorrows
And we've had our time of grief,
We have wept and wept to-morrow;
But we've lived another year;
And in spite of all the grieving
And the burdens that we bore,
The old year's truly leaving
Us all richer than before.

We are wiser now and kinder
Than we were when it began,
We are just a little blinder
To the petty faults of man;
And we have done of trouble found us,
Sending sorrow to our door,
To the friends who gathered round us
We are closer than before.

Came a good and happy new friend
With the passing of the year,
To old and young and true friend,
With his comfort and his cheer;
Though our fortune doesn't show it
As we run our bank book o'er,
In many ways we know it
We are richer than before.

We have memories to treasure
All sparkling gems of pleasure
Little sparkling gems of pleasure
Which forever we may know;
At the end of December
With the twelve months almost o'er,
We have much we shall remember
And we're richer than before.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

WINTER JOYS.

Of winter joys, one that I know
With gladness I will tell you,
I like to stand out in the snow
And see cool gougers shiver.

Among the pleasures, also there
Is one that makes the grin
I love to see icebergs there
Upon a landlord's chin.

But there is one drawback of course
That sort of oasts a blur
Upon my joy, and that I know
These things do not occur.

As soon as the ladies were told by an eminent physician that high heels cause divorce, they straightaway bought shoes with heels a half-inch higher than the old ones.

There is now an airplane that can travel 248 miles an hour, but we cannot imagine ourselves ever being that much in a hurry.

EXPLAINING MEN'S STYLES.

Dear Roy:—Gentlemen's fashion have long pointed the finger of derision at the affectation of buttons on coat cuffs, cuffs on trousers and hat bands. Now, for the information of yourself and your reverent readers, of whom I am one, permit me to state that while I cannot as yet justify the first two items, the hat band was designed as a repository for railroad conductor's identification checks. The cuff on the trousers serves occasionally as a trap for falling coin and cigar ashes. It disposes when the owner of the trousers pretends to retire after having spent anxious hours during the day in the search for the lost coin. My researches shall be continued. —A. L. Franck.

Some of the new senators who are styling themselves "radicals" will doubtless find, after a while, that they have picked out a word that is not very popular in this country, where radical means about the same as recid.

Who's Who Today

STANISLAW WOJCIECHOWSKI.
Stanislaw Wojciechowski, recently elected president of Poland by the national assembly, will be supported by the largest individual group in that body, the Christian Alliance of National Unity. His policies will be influenced by three other groups instrumental in his election—the liberal farmers' party, the Polish socialist party and the radical farmers' party.

Wojciechowski was born Dec. 20, 1869. He attended the University of Kalisz, but was expelled from Russia in 1905 for belonging to a secret Polish organization. The next 14 years were spent in Switzerland, France, and England, where he was active in working for an independent Poland.

In 1905 he was permitted to return to Poland, where he organized the Consumers' Cooperative association of more than 600 branches.

During the war he was strongly pro-ally in activity and public utterances and although he was a member of the Polish party of the liberal farmers' group he was appointed minister of the interior by Premier Paderewski in 1919.

When the planist resigned the post of prime minister in the Skulski cabinet he was minister of the interior.

After the resignation of the Skulski cabinet in 1920 he became chairman of the government committee on budget economy.

HOW EMOTION SLOWS UP DIGESTION

According to Lou, the "cereal of rice" as employed by a religious sect in India, was a practical application of the principle that worry or fear inhibits or prevents the flow of saliva. Of a number of persons under the treatment of the cereal, the one who ejected the concentrated rice dry upon the sacred fire lost after chewing for a certain time, was adjudged guilty.

Too well do you and I, at least I, know how the lips and mouth go dry and the tongue cleaves to the palate when one is suddenly called upon to make a few remarks in public. Public speaking is a thing for which no man's mouth was created.

Payroll allowed one of his dogs to gaze upon, and smell his favorite feed; the flow of gastric juice in the stomach pouch at once commenced. Then a hated cat was introduced upon the rug, whereupon both the cat and the gastric secretion disappeared and neither could be conked back into the picture for a considerable time.

A little boy with a stomachful of accidental origin produced a free flow of gastric juice when allowed to chew some food. But if he was annoyed in any way while eating, gastric juice was secreted at a much slower rate.

The heaviness of distress felt in the stomach, when one is under great anxiety, is probably due to the delay in digestion of the food. Stagnation of food stays right there.

Even in an anesthetized subject, as Dr. Crile has pointed out, irritation of a sensory nerve, though not felt by the subject, would evoke pain in a conscious subject—abolishes the peristaltic movements of the stomach. This means delayed digestion—food stays.

Food which in the body interferes with digestion. Severe pain will produce nausea or vomiting. Frequent or recurring pain will obviously set up nervous worry, fear, anger, and have the same effect.

Q. Where were the first state primaries held? N. L. A. The first primary was first adopted as legal for all nominations in 1905 in Wisconsin.

Q. Do many foreigners live in Cairo, Egypt? C. L. V. A. The latest census shows that Cairo has a population of 52,000 foreigners, mostly Europeans. Cairo has lost much of its oriental character within the last 50 years. The modern section of the city has wide, well-paved streets and stores, cafes, concert halls and an opera house. It is known as the Ismailiyyah. There are electric tramways and other means of transportation.

Q. I have seen the address "Honolulu, T. H." on letterheads. What do the initials stand for? T. H. A. T. H. stands for Territory of Hawaii.

Q. Should the axe be turned on a stove before the match is applied to the burner? H. D. A. A second or turning the gas on the open stove should separate the air of the gas holes and produces a purer flame.

Q. Is the Yule log a part of the British celebration of Christmas? R. O. A. The custom of burning the Yule log on Christmas Eve is not generally observed in England. The custom still exists in some of the rural sections. It is more prevalent in Scandinavian countries.

Q. Where did the two-thirds rule originate in constitutional and parliamentary law? C. H. T. A. The two-thirds rule may be regarded as American in its origin and grew out of the jealous vigilance with which the smaller communities included in the union of states sought to safeguard their political rights.

Q. The constitution for example, in providing a two-thirds vote of the senate for conviction in impeachment cases, secures to a minority of the states a represented in the senate the power to decide the result.

Lucky Pennsylvanians

Get Coal from Rivers

Harrisburg, Pa.—The coal problem this winter is one of the strongest arm horses and a vehicle—wheelbarrow, mules and wagon, or motor truck for some of those Pennsylvanians whose homes are on the banks of streams which flow from the hard coal regions.

River-coal—so-called because it is found in the beds of these rivers—is the solution. The coal, in the form of small particles, finer than the grade known commercially as buckshot, has been used for years, largely by the manufacturing plants, but the fear of shortage this year has increased household consumption, and many persons living along the streams have been gathering up the coal for the use of a shovel and a cart or automobile for transportation.

The coal is mainly the product of culm or refuse bank of the vicinity of mines further up the streams.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Pandora Nicholson is shy to a painful degree. She is an odd little sensitive, neglected girl who lives as a sort of a paragon with her Uncle Peter and Aunt Maude, and their daughter Gladys, who is loud voiced and popular.

She understands or cares for her except her father who also lives there, she is afraid of people, and she is to them, near home when she is away. A quiet little friendship begins with Morton Newberry, who is shy and when Gladys suddenly decides she wants Morton, though every other girl in town has been snubbed or even by her father, she is not engaged to him. Dora is broken hearted. She has begun a friendship with Gloria Gates when that other exotic lady is visiting from New York.

A BARGAIN

Chapter 32.

Dora was to see Mrs. Gates again before that lady left. The day after Aunt Maude and Gladys arrived, Dora was sent in town to ask Mrs. Gates to come and see the furniture.

"You go, Gladys, and hunt her up. I'm not going to miss a chance to make some extra money," Aunt Maude declared. "Then you can visit with Mortie awhile."

"Send Dora too. I don't want to see any tussy furniture buyer. I've someone more interesting to talk to in town," Gladys answered. So on this suggestion Dora went, delighted at an excuse to hunt up her new friend.

She passed Francis in the yard, with a very red headed woman, wearing a long gray linen cape and a close fitting cap with a gray veil rippling down over her cap. Dora had never seen such a costume, did not know it as the correct English nurse's outfit, but thought the young woman a sort of nun.

She found Gloria in the fine room in the living room of the old fashioned house.

"They say I'm a bad woman here because I wear low cut dresses in the evening and tea gowns in the afternoon," Gloria announced to explain her wrath. Her nervous face was drawn up in a frown again.

"But my dear—it was very low, and they're not used to that sort of thing here," interposed Mrs. Ingle's mild.

"Do them good to see it once in awhile then," snapped Gloria.

"They say also that I'm bad because I'm not living with my husband a man may be too evil or too disagreeable for a self-respecting woman to put up with, but in this peculiar town, if she leaves him she is condemned. They also say I can't be good because I make my own living and support my son—and have what they call the extravagant luxury of a nurse for him. As for this, he is child's nurse and runs a business."

"Dear, it's only because they heard you paid $300 for one dress," Mrs. Ingle's interposed.

"Mrs. Ingle's interposed. Dora said without thinking, 'Aunt Maude only paid $200 for Gladys' dress—' and that included the fur.'

This made both women laugh.

"Splendid!" cried Gloria. "It was your uncle started these stories about me. I was going to offer him $500 for his furniture, now I'll make it $300—and send him right which he didn't do the next day, driving out with Morton in Morton's carriage. Uncle Peter refused, he had plenty of money and when it came to parting with the old pieces he had been brought up with, he found himself suddenly reluctant. Also—and this was the more important reason, he knew that 'old stuff' was worth money. How much he didn't know—but he wanted a thousand to build a new barn."

An amusing incident occurred while Mrs. Gates was at the farm. As she started back toward the little old house with Aunt Maude, Uncle Peter and Dora, Morton started too. Gladys, from the kitchen, called sharply.

"Morton! Come here!"

"And Morton started back.

Gloria turned amazed eyes upon Dora.

"Good Lord, he went!" she murmured. "And then say this is a man's world! Her (Mrs. Gates) was startled upon her coming a moment. Dora felt as though every secret in her life were being dragged forth under that searching gaze.

"What was the matter child? Didn't you like him?" she asked softly.

Then she was answered by the whiteness of the girl's cheeks and the tightly drawn lips and the look in her mouth. It was a curious expression.

"When I'm in pain," Dora once wrote in her diary, "I feel as though my lips were drawn back and around my teeth like the unbroken dead skin on a corpse. I must look frightful then."

But the bargain was struck by Gladys, when the party returned to the big furniture store again.

"Take the money," Gladys urged. "It's just what my clothes came to—then, father can't have because of what my troupeau cost."

"Aunt Gates casually pulled three $100 bills from her purse, and asked for a receipt. She would have the stuff shipped to her office the next day she said.

"At parting she turned to Aunt Maude.

"I've become such friends with your niece—I want her to come to a small party tomorrow, the night before I leave."

"Dora can't go that far alone," thank you, "Aunt Maude answered briefly.

Dora went to the carriage. Morton made an unwise suggestion. "I'll come for her," he offered.

There was a silence, laden heavily with everything Aunt Maude wanted to say, but didn't dare. She looked from Morton to Gladys and back to Mrs. Gates. Mrs. Gates blandly refused to admit the fact that Gladys was the party. Aunt Maude's fiancée showed that Morton, engaged to Gladys, should take her other girls to parties. Dora refused.

"When Mrs. Gates urged her as they stood at the carriage, she begged, 'Please, please don't! I wouldn't dare—really!'"

"Poor lamb!" Gloria murmured—and drove away.

or convalescent who is able to sit up in bed and who will be appreciated.

Take a square of yard-wide goods, or wider, cut diagonally, then cut a round hole exactly in the center for the neck. Turn in an inch all around outside and up the diagonal part and work with wool; finish the neck in the same way and you have an ideal covering to slip over the nightgown.

It can be trimmed with ribbon, glass with tassels, or the front also, or furnished with clasps for closing, and makes a nice gift to one who is in a hospital or an invalid at home.

Brush for Dusting—When dusting carved furniture use a fine bristle paint brush to get in all the cracks and crevices.

Washing Corduroy—Corduroy is a kind of cotton which may be washed provided that it is not rubbed, squeezed or ironed. Use a solution of mild soap, or for dark colors that may stain or fade, a solution of soap

bar. Soak the garment in a soap water, changing the water as it becomes soiled. Rinse in several clean waters until no more soap and suds come out. Hang the garment dripping wet so that it will dry in the shade in which it is worn. Dry in the wind if possible.

When dry brush briskly to raise the nap.

To Blow Soap Bubbles—Use an empty wooden spoon in place of a bubble pipe. Put one end on the bar of soap, then dip it into the sudsy water.

It blows the loveliest bubbles imaginable. You can supply the little ones with spoons instead of pipes. Thus they have a real bubble party with no expense whatever.

Develop Own Taste—When people

learn not to consider the latest fad but their own innate taste, and try to develop that in order to express themselves most sincerely, we shall not only have more attractive interiors

but more varied ones.

Heart and Home

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Could you suggest something for my hair and scalp? What could I get to keep my hair from falling out so badly and my scalp from itching? It itches awfully. It hasn't any dandruff. My hair also gets awfully oily and I have to wash it nearly every week.

BROWN EYES.

You wash your hair too often. In spite of the fact that it gets oily in a week's time it should not be washed oftener than once in two weeks. Get a bottle of mace cure at the drug store and follow the directions that go with the bottle. At the same time, wash your face with soap and water. It will get even worse than now, but a new and stronger growth will come. I believe you will find that the treatment will also relieve the itching and the oily condition.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man of 21 years. I am going to school and I am engaged to a young lady who is also attending another school. I love her very dearly and she says she loves me, but she has dates with other fellows who were old chums before I met her. She says she doesn't think it wrong, but I do.

She seems to love me very much when we are together. I love her so much that I do not want to go with any other girls. It was for her that I went back to school.

She also has a girl friend whom I dislike very much and she has caused a great deal of trouble between us, but she will not drop her. Please tell me whether I should quit school or quit going with her and forget her. Tell me if you think a girl who is engaged should have dates with any other one.

A girl who is engaged rarely has dates with other young men. I should think, however, since you and your fiancée do not attend the same school, it is only natural that she should want to go with some one else when it is impossible to be together. My advice is to have faith in the girl and in her love for you. Let her go with other young men since she is doing right in her own way. There could be no greater test of the sincerity of her love. If she finds some one she likes better, you surely ought to know it before you take so final a step as marriage.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 22 and am going with a gentleman of 37 and I love him very dearly. He is sure that since I am so young if we marry I will tire of him in a short time. I care too much for him to ever tire of him. Could you tell me a good way to have him come to me and I have been true blue to him so far. When he comes to see me it is proper for me to greet him with a

PREVENTING CHAPPED SKIN

These are the days when a cold cream jar is a woman's best friend. Few things so spoil one's good looks and good nature as a rough, red, prickly, dry, chapped complexion. No one need have who takes the very slightest care of herself.

The first thing to remember is that in really cold weather the ordinary inexpensive cold cream is not good enough. These creams, like my own cleansing cream, are made from white mineral oil, which the skin will not readily absorb. To be sure, such creams will help a little in preventing or curing chaps—but try this instead:

PINE CREAM

Almond oil (or olive oil) 4 ounces
Spermaceti 1 ounce
White wax 1 ounce
Rose water 4 ounces
Benzoin 1 ounce

Make up as usual, melting the oil and the wax and spermaceti, adding the warmed rose water and benzoin and beating until ready to congeal. This forms a stiff cream and goes on best after the face is washed with hot water. Wipe off what's left on the skin with a cloth wrung from hot water, powder—and you can face the keenest wind unafraid.

This is good for the hands, if used after they've been washed and if loose gloves are pulled on and kept on for some hours. It's a splendid nourishing cream and I also advise it usually for massaging wrinkles. But any pressure under the skin on the hands during the day. The Honey-Almond Lotion is best for that purpose as it evaporates so readily and leaves the skin soft and white. Have you my formula for it also? If not, write for it, not failing to enclose your S. A. C.

Mrs. T. W. S.—Growing nails should be trimmed so the center of the nail is shorter than at the sides. The sides of the nails are then lifted very gently from the fleshy part of the toe and a very small piece of absorbent cotton is placed under these. This will keep the nail from curving but any pressure under the flesh and nail almost always correct this bad tendency.

New Enterprises Do Not Come Into a City Where Local Firms are Having Poor Success

If you were selecting a city in which to open up a new business, what would you consider? The very first thing which would make a good or bad impression upon your mind would be the success with which the firms already in that city were meeting. If that city had business houses struggling along on a "hand-to-mouth" basis, you would not give it a second thought. On the other hand, if the city has thriving, bustling, busy, concerns, you will give it long and studied consideration. But remember, that the success of business houses is determined by the support they receive from the public. This is true of Janesville manufacturers. If Janesville people will not support Janesville enterprises, how can Janesville ever expect to get new ones?

TOUR ROCK COUNTY DUROC HOG FARMS

Jefferson County Breeders Inspect Herds in Rock County on Friday.

Rock county Duroc-Jersey swine made a decided impression upon Jefferson county Duroc breeders, who made a tour of several farms in Rock county on Friday. It was an exchange tour, whereby the breeders of one county visited another to become friends, discuss breed problems and agree on methods to develop the breed.

Only a limited number of Duroc-Jersey farms could be visited during the time allotted. Enough herds were inspected to bear out the truth of Rock's claim to be the producer of great breeding swine. Practically every popular blood line of the Duroc was represented on the farms visited and the high quality of all the swine herds demonstrated.

Jefferson county has much to learn from the Rock county Duroc breeders. This spring or summer it is hoped to arrange a tour of Rock county men to visit the neighboring county to stimulate better inter-county relationship.

See Good News

The first farm visited on the tour was that of Fred Waldman—Blackhawk stock farm—east of Janesville. This herd has good type sires and two herd books are kept up to the high quality of Rock county registered swine. The fall pig is Sensation Guno, whose blood traces back to Great Orion Sensation, twice grand champion. This year's born has a remarkable bone. His sire was Sensation Great Orion, a $2,000 boar and the dam by Mammoth Sensation.

The herd of E. H. Parker and son—Parkhurst—was also visited. Here were a collection of fine type, broad backed and heavy gilts and sows that won many compliments. Attention was attracted by Jack's Big King, a proven sire, who has done much to make Duroc winners in Wisconsin. The young boar is an Orion Cherry King boar with King Matchless blood.

Both prize winning Durocs and boar showmen were inspected at the farm of J. J. McCann and sons. The Duroc herd sires are Paramount Sensation, a son of Paramount out of a dam by Great Orion Sensation and an April pig sires by Ames Sensation with a Seisow's bred dam. Master's Signet the first prize Shorthorn bull and Jersey cow of Geneva, first prize cow were also shown on this farm.

The next herd inspected was that of William Hughes and sons. The Hughes herd has correct type, many gilts showing extreme length.

See Poland Boar

"As good a bunch of gilts as can be found in Wisconsin," was the verdict passed upon the young stock on the farm of Clarence Croft—Fashion-Croft farm. Croft has a remarkable collection of good gilts, all uniform in type, carrying the paramount points sought in good breeding stock. They are typical Rock county Durocs. The senior herd sire is Fashion-Croft, a first prize Duroc, who was bred by the late George Croft, founder of the Rock county Duroc show herd. This boar was sired by Ullimus. However, one of the best prospects on this farm is the spring boar—Fashion-Croft, Jr., a first prize Duroc, who was bred by the late George Croft, founder of the Rock county Duroc show herd. This boar was sired by Ullimus. However, one of the best prospects on this farm is the spring boar—Fashion-Croft, Jr., a first prize Duroc, who was bred by the late George Croft, founder of the Rock county Duroc show herd. This boar was sired by Ullimus.

Probably the best age sows seen on the tour were on the farm of Walsh Brothers, Beloit. Their gilts are also in good condition and every animal on the farm showed a good arched back, with plenty of weight. There were sows on this farm that would weigh between 350 and 400 pounds and were full of milk. These were outstanding animals.

Enroute back to Beloit the convoy stopped at the farm of Charles Malby, Riverside drive, to see Giant of Fairview, the high backed Poland-China sire. After seeing the extreme length, heavy bone and size of this boar, some of the Duroc breeders wanted to borrow a pair of brush and a barrel of red dye. The giant is still growing and his development continues, will be the largest boar in the world providing he can be fattened. The last herd inspected was that of F. H. Arnold, who has a fine Duroc herd. One of the best Duroc sires in Rock county. This sire is a good prospect for the 1933 Rock county Duroc show herd.

Tour a Success

The tour was arranged by T. F. Shreve and the two county Duroc associations. The Jefferson association has been recently organized but shows progressive spirit. Reckless was expressed that more farms could not be visited.

Those from Jefferson county were as follows: J. M. Corner, county agent; Everson and Perry, E. C. Froelich, Harold Banker, Kenneth Crump, J. C. Ford, Fred Gurn, P. J. Everson, Benjamin F. Berg, Lake Mills, M. C. Vosberg, Henry Antnes, Earl Pittner, Leroy Carlson, George H. Leonard, John Hettis and Glen Kamm, Port Washington. J. H. McKay, college of agriculture, Madison also made the tour.

"We had heard of Rock county being first in Durocs and now we know it," was the expression. "I can claim that there are no good herds as uniform and good as those inspected is true, then Rock is certainly a real Duroc center."

FARM BUREAU OFFICERS PLAN NATIONAL PROGRAM

Retirement of "Jim" Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation has brought into the limelight O. E. Bradute, the new president. Much is expected of the new president for Howard laid a solid foundation for the A. F. B. F. to work out a national policy to improve agriculture.

The new president carries the viewpoints of the American farmer for he is one and has been one all his life.

One of the most prominent men in the Farm Bureau organization is Gray Silver. Every one knows him in Washington for from the president down, government representatives consult Silver on farm legislation. He is the agent for

O. E. BRADUTE New President.

1,500,000 organized American farmers at the national capital. Any farm measure that does not have his endorsement stands a slim chance of final passage. Every Farm Bureau representative from three to five states. That counts. Consequently Silver's voice is heard. Congressmen having farmer interest in heart or mind look to Silver to tell them what the farmers want. The famous Farm Bill in Congress was organized in the Washington office of the Farm Bureau largely through the efforts of Jim Howard and Gray Silver.

WISCONSIN TOBACCO MARKET. Edgerton. The Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter Friday says that the Christmas brought weather that induced growers to go into their sheds and begin taking down. One crop raised near Edgerton was baled and ready for delivery Tuesday. The case is not extra good; the top hanging in most sheds was not in good case Tuesday. In favorable locations the case is said to be just right. But it is coming down and the hands will be busy during the coming days.

"However, though welcome, this is not very important news. The following, on the other hand, is an article from the pool deals with the advantages of the grades to be established for pooled tobacco. Supplementary to this the following information is pertinent:

"There are four grades—A, B, C and D. Each grade represents 1, 2, 3 and 4 inches. 1 is 14 and less than 16 inches; 2 is 12 and less than 14 inches; 3 is 10 and less than 12 inches; and 4 is 8 and less than 10 inches. This applies to all grades. It is important to know that there will be one classification for northern and one for southern tobacco with respect to price. Grade A northern will be offered at 12, 13, 14

Markets Dep't. Will Continue Radio Reports

Madison—Broadcasting of market reports will be commenced again by the state department of markets at an early date. E. Jones in charge of the market news service announces. The department has just applied for a license and call letters are to be assigned within a short time.

The department has made no broadcasts of its market service for the past few months after its Madison distributing office was discontinued. It says that those interested in radio reports should write to the department of markets, Wisconsin, for information.

FIND MANY USES FOR CORN COBS AT IOWA COLLEGE

AMES, Iowa.—The time is not distant when it will be just as important to haul corn cobs to market as it is today, according to Dr. O. J. Sawyer, head of the Chemical Engineering department, and other members of the Iowa state college faculty. One professor says he sees the time when every town will have a plant to take care of the corn cobs.

Senior students of the chemical engineering department have been in the past few months after its Madison distributing office was discontinued. It says that those interested in radio reports should write to the department of markets, Wisconsin, for information.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

UPWARD TREND IN PRODUCTION SHOWN

Greater Employment and Healthy Tone in Trade During November Reported.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington — November business conditions represented a continuation of the upward trend in production, a greater employment of labor which in some localities was reported nearing the scarcity mark and a generally healthy tone in trade, according to the monthly survey made public today by the federal reserve board.

Contrary to the usual situation at this season of the year, the board found production in basic industries increasing a condition that has proceeded almost uninterrupted since January 1921 when production was lower than at any time in recent years. The condition the board believed assured well.

Slump Not Serious
Wholesale trade felt the usual seasonal slump but it was not regarded as serious because of the other healthy conditions and large Christmas sales obviously had tended to deplete retail stocks. The wholesale trade, therefore, was expected to pick up appreciably at once.

The volume of payments by check, ordinarily a measure of business turnover, decreased slightly in every federal reserve district except Atlanta. For 146 revolving cities, the total number of checks was seven percent lower than in October but approximately ten percent higher than in November last year.

Larger demand for bank credit was noted during the month but it seemed to have been confined mostly to the interior, the review said, and was accompanied by liquidation of loans and investments in New York and Boston.

Stock taking of the nation's domestic business for the last year gives "a feeling of satisfaction" as to the progress made, the department of commerce declared today in an end of the year statement and, from this day's position, it added, "there are no serious obstacles in sight which should hinder further advances" in the early new year.

Improvement in Stocks and Bonds Seen During Week

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York—Stock and bond prices showed moderate improvement this week despite a heavy volume of selling to establish losses for income tax purposes. Foreign exchanges were inclined to ease first on the decision of the reparations commission declaring Germany in default on her wood deliveries and then on the hint over the disposition of the Mosul oil fields in the Lusitania peace negotiations, but net losses were comparatively small.

Publication of November earnings statements on the principal railroads which compare favorably with those of November 1921 stimulated trading in railroad shares, buying of which was also influenced by the record breaking volume of traffic for this season of the year. The year closes with the steel industry working between 80 and 85 percent of normal capacity and the trend of prices upward. Building construction shows a decided abatement and orders for automobile forgings give promise of another record-breaking year in that industry. An increase in the price of Wyoming crude oil and increase in price of rubber tires and tubes attracted attention in the financial markets and were reflected in higher stock prices.

Motor and accessory shares were inclined to strengthen in expectation of good business at the winter shows which start next month. Studebaker, which sold ex-dividend 25 percent in stock yesterday and closed at 11 1/2 against 12 1/2, the previous day, really registered a net gain of more than three points.

INVESTMENTS

Seventh Federal Reserve bank issues a report showing that employment conditions which grew better in October kept up during November with an upward trend in wages noted for several months. Marked decreases in employment occurred in wearing apparel and in knit goods.

Wisconsin shows a continuing increase in savings deposits during the year. Index figures show a plus sign of 2 per cent, the highest in this district.

Christmas clubs in Janesville have started off at all the banks, using this system with unusual interest this year. Checks from these clubs have added a considerable sum to the regular savings deposits.

Local sales of automobiles have slowed down the past week, one account of inventory taking in most of the sales rooms.

No considerable or important changes are looked for in the annual elections of the stockholders of the Janesville banks this year.

It is rumored that in case the packing house of Armour & Co. and Morris & Co. are merged, it will be through a financial subsidiary of Armour & Co. and the new corporation will probably renege the Armour seven per cent notes due in 1926, in which event it is believed these notes will be called at about 105 and interest.

The Weyenberg Shoe Co. of Milwaukee is reported to be running the plant at capacity. They are one of the largest and best equipped factory plants in Rock county, with a total floor space of over 50,000 square feet; producing approximately $500,000 worth of manufactured products per month and employing more than 200 men and women in all departments. The Burdick company's enlargement is expected to result in a material increase in the population of Milton and Milton Junction, as well as give an impetus to all business interests throughout this county.

Preferred Stock

Issue Offered by Burdick Cabinet

With the completion of its new brick addition next month, the Burdick Cabinet company will have one of the largest and best equipped factory plants in Rock county, with a total floor space of over 50,000 square feet; producing approximately $500,000 worth of manufactured products per month and employing more than 200 men and women in all departments. The Burdick company's enlargement is expected to result in a material increase in the population of Milton and Milton Junction, as well as give an impetus to all business interests throughout this county.

To finance its new expansion program, the company has authorized a "Special Business Expansion Preferred Stock" issue of 1,000 shares at a par value of $100 each, preferred both as to assets and dividends. The stock provides for an 8 per cent dividend payable semi-annually (February 15 and August 15) of each year. The Wisconsin Blue Sky commission, after and exacting investigation of the company's business, has issued a "Class A" permit for the sale of the preferred stock.

One phase of the cabinet company's expansion program will be the building of many new houses next spring to house employees and their families.

UNCLE JOE AGAIN QUILTS HIS CIGARS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington — Uncle Joe Cannon has quit smoking—again. Societies for suppression of smoking among men and women may find little comfort, however, in this announcement, for Uncle Joe quits every now and then.

"Don't you think you ought to give up those cigars," the doctor asked the other day, meeting the former speaker of the house.

"Sure," said Uncle Joe, and he did—but how long, not even he will predict.

Mr. Cannon's cigars are not long and black all cartons; to the contrary notwithstanding. He uses the mildest the market affords.

A Sound Proven Investment

8% Preferred Stock of the Burdick Cabinet Co.

Milton, Wisconsin, December 30, 1922

The purpose of this advertisement is to announce a Special Business Expansion Preferred Stock Issue of the BURDICK CABINET COMPANY.

This stock provides for an 8 per cent dividend payable semi-annually (February 15 and August 15) of each year. The authorization for this Stock Issue is one thousand shares at par value of $100 each, and preferred both as to assets and dividends.

The Blue Sky Commission of Wisconsin, after its usual detailed study of the history and present financial status of the business, has issued a "Class A" permit for the sale of the Preferred Stock set forth in this issue.

Those familiar with the conservative policy of the Wisconsin Blue Sky Commission and its thorough investigation of all applicants, will understand what this "Class A" clearance in Wisconsin means as a guarantee to purchasers of this issue of Preferred Stock in the BURDICK CABINET COMPANY.

THE OBJECT of this special stock issue is to quickly meet the demand for increased production by enlarging our factory plant and increasing our equipment. During the past two years, while business in general has been languishing, this Company has built up a demand for Burdick products far beyond our production capacity to supply.

To take care of this business opportunity it is necessary to double our production capacity this fall. Every effort was made to accomplish this result without building until spring, but increasing demands made imperative additional factory space and equipment at once. The engineering work for a first-class factory building has been done and the construction work is now well under way.

This expansion of the business will give Milton a thoroughly modern factory plant, with a total floor space of over fifty thousand square feet, producing approximately $200,000 worth (at list price) of manufactured product per month, and employing more than two hundred laborers in all departments.

The Company has for several years maintained Research Laboratories both physical and chemical. These Laboratories have produced a great wealth of new discoveries and inventions establishing a sound basis for future growth and operation of the business. The Laboratory developments have an intangible asset of great value to the future of the Company and its real earning power.

SECURITY. The Preferred Stock of this issue is preferred both as to assets and dividends. The new sound depreciated value of the real estate, buildings, machinery, and equipment as appraised by the Edw. R. Burt Company, Public Appraisers and Engineers, acting for the State of Wisconsin, is $126,645.54, including additional purchases to November 1, 1922.

ASSETS. The certified balance sheet, as of November 30, 1922, after giving effect to this financing, shows net fixed assets of $196,645.54 and net current assets of $159,347.38 exclusive of patent right values, making total assets of $355,993.42, or $193.00 for each share of Preferred Stock of this Company that will then be outstanding.

EARNINGS. As certified by the audit of the Edw. R. Burt Company, July 31, net earnings for the period of 1922 ending November 30, were $101,500.19, (including Tax Reserve) or 14 times the total of 8 per cent dividend of this issue of Preferred Stock and more than the total issue.

The new buildings are being paid for out of the earnings of the business, without interrupting our usual custom of discounting monthly bills—leaving the money from this issue entirely for increased working capital and safe cash reserve.

BURDICK CABINET COMPANY

CONDENSED BALANCE SHEET AS OF DECEMBER 1, 1922.

Table with 2 columns: Description and Amount. Rows include Current Assets (Cash on Hand, Notes Receivable, Accounts Receivable, Merchandise Inventories), Fixed Assets (Real Estate, Buildings, Equipment), Patents and Patent Rights, Deferred Charges, Current Liabilities (Notes Payable, Accounts Payable), Total Current Liabilities, Reserve for 1922 Federal Tax, Capital Stock (Preferred, Common), and Surplus.

BURDICK CABINET COMPANY, a corporation formed under the laws of Delaware, is the largest concern in the world engaged solely in the manufacture of Light Therapy equipment. Their product also ranks first among medical appliances of its class. The equipment is in use in nearly all government hospitals and in leading medical institutions of the country. The entire product is protected by numerous U. S. and foreign patents.

The business has made a steady, healthy growth during the past five or six years from small developments, with no spasmodic booms at any time.

The Company has a high commercial rating with all agencies; discounts its bills regularly; has no past due bills or notes payable, and pays an 8 per cent dividend on all its Preferred Stock outstanding when due, February 15 and August 15.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS. The stockholders, at a recent meeting, elected a Board of seven Directors from men directly connected with the management of the business. This new Board of Directors is intimately familiar with the details of the business, and are a guarantee of even greater efficiency and success in the large expansion the Company is preparing to make in its operations.

Mr. F. F. Burdick, President and founder of the enterprise. The inception of the germinal principle upon which the business was founded, as well as the guiding policy through the evolutionary stages from the smallest beginning to the present, were with Mr. Burdick. He still remains at the head of the business to direct, through an efficient organization, the greater success in the days to come.

Mr. F. A. Anderson, Vice President and Factory Superintendent, is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, The American Society for Advancement of Science, and also a member of our local Town Board. Mr. Anderson is a mechanic and executive of exceptional ability and his position on the Board is an asset of great value to the Company.

Mr. E. G. Fulton, Secretary and General Manager, has a wide reputation as an organizer and general manager of unusual ability. Mr. Fulton's managerial experience assures the highest efficiency throughout the various departments of the organization, with lowest operating costs and largest profit margins.

THE IMMEDIATE RESULT of this stock issue to the people of Milton and vicinity will be: FIRST. One of the largest and best equipped factory plants in Rock County, Wisconsin.

SECOND. Local employment for the people of the community.

THIRD. Material increase in population.

FOURTH. Weekly pay roll of $4000 to $5000 which will be spent in building local business interests.

FIFTH. The building of many new homes.

SIXTH. An 8 per cent annual dividend to all participants in this stock issue.

This offer is made first to our old stockholders who are permitted on first subscription to an amount equal to their present holdings, after which subscriptions will be accepted from the public and old stockholders alike.

"Balanced Investment"

ALMOST daily are we called upon to remedy the effects of poorly balanced investment accounts. To cite one instance: A business man, very successful in his own line, invested almost all of his spare cash in one place. It is still there—and his widow is waiting for dividends. If only the investment of that money had been properly balanced she would not be scrimping today.

FIFTEEN GOVERNORS DISCUSS PROHIBITION WITH PRESIDENT

Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria.

Bavarian republicans believe they have discovered a monarchist plan to place former Crown Prince Rupprecht in power and restore the throne. They believe that the bill to create a "state president," introduced in the diet by the reactionaries, is a part of this plan. A figurehead would be set up first and then Rupprecht would step in, republicans assert.

Mrs. Peggy Lewis Lanier.

Mrs. Peggy Lewis Lanier is suing Dr. J. D. Lanier, father of her husband, Sidney, for the alienating her spouse's affections. They were married after a whirlwind courtship, but never lived together, she charges, because Dr. Lanier said his son was not physically fit to wed.

Mrs. William Cumming Story.

Mrs. William Cumming Story, president general of the D. A. R. from 1919 to 1921, has just been nominated again for that post by the Roosevelt chapter of Ayer, N. Y.

Conrad W. Crocker.

An appeal to the Massachusetts courts to unseat Senator Lodge will be taken if the senate committee on privileges and elections delays hearing the petition filed with Vice President Coolidge by Conrad W. Crocker. Crocker is attorney for John A. Nichols, prohibition progressive candidate against Lodge at the recent election. He threatens immediate court action if the senate refuses to act.

Below, Soldier Key Island, which James S. Benn (inset) has purchased. Above, view of private dock from the island.

At some time or other most every boy has dreamed of roaming afar and finding some island which he could claim as his own and there prowling about in caves and coves where pirates lurked. James S. Benn of Philadelphia, public service commissioner of Pennsylvania, has seen this dream come true. He has purchased Soldier Key Island, off Cape Florida, from the government and will build a palatial home on it. The island is said to have been the home of Black Caesar, pirate and cut-throat who once terrorized Florida shores. Benn is now in Miami arranging improvements on the island.

Edith Mason as "Higoletto's daughter."

Chicago opera patrons are unstinted in their praise of Edith Mason, one of the few dyed-in-the-wool Americans now featured in grand opera. Miss Mason's brilliant voice has won her a lasting place in the hearts of opera devotees.

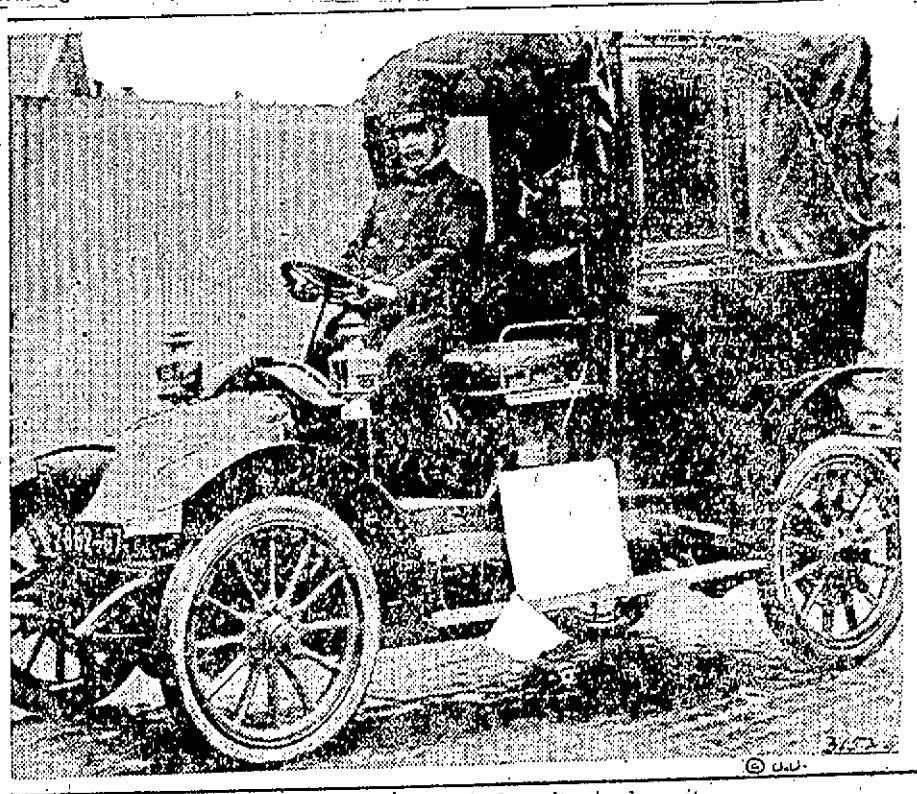

Joseph F. Mikulec, as he appeared recently in Chicago en route to Texas with record autograph book and (inset) as he appeared in Washington in 1914 after first trip around world.

Joseph F. Mikulec, Croatian by birth, lays claim to being the world's greatest globe trotter and autograph collector. In his travels, since 1901, he has visited twenty-six countries and collected over 50,000 autographs, including those of rulers of the principal powers of the world. He recently left Chicago on his way to Texas with his mammoth book of signatures of noted people, the largest book of its kind in the world.

Fifteen of the state executives who have been attending the fourteenth annual governors' conference at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., recently visited the White House in Washington, D. C., to discuss prohibition enforcement with President Harding. A number of the governors suggested that enforcement be left solely to the individual states.

The taxi, with its driver, M. Louis Gouault, who drove it.

Taxis usually are considered nuisances, especially by pedestrians. But the French government thinks enough of the one above to install it in the war museum of the Hotel des Invalides, Paris. This rickety old cab was a veteran in service when the war broke out eight years ago. It was commandeered with every other taxi in the nation to push troops to the front to halt the Germans' march on Paris. Louis Gouault, the driver, although then forty-four, stuck by his wheel and piloted the machine through those hectic days. Recently he drove the cab, bullet-ridden and creaking with age, into the museum.

The memorial placed over the graves of Sir Wilfred and Lady Laurier. This memorial to the late Sir Wilfred Laurier, former prime minister of Canada, and Lady Laurier has been erected over their graves in the cemetery at Ottawa by Canadians.

Comrade Krupkaya.

Comrade Krupkaya, wife of Nicolai Lenin, soviet dictator, is director of text books for the Russian schools in the Lenin cabinet. She is one of the most active of Lenin's aides.

Dr. von Rosenberg.

Dr. von Rosenberg, former ambassador to Copenhagen, as the York Yankees, is sitting pretty these days. He has only one boss to please now. Col. Til Huston, half owner of the team with Col. Jacob Ruppert for the last several years, has sold out his interest to Ruppert. Germany will play an important part in Germany's efforts to regain the two colonies continually disagreed over the capabilities of retention of Huggins as pilot. Huston was for letting him go.

Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees, left, and Jake Ruppert, the only boss he has now.

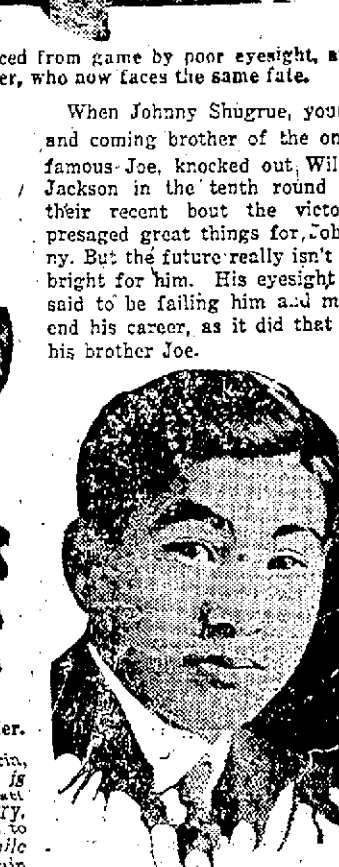

Dr. von Knilling, Bavarian premier.

The new government of Bavaria, formed by Premier von Knilling, is being threatened by the Fascist organization in the country. Hitler, the Fascist chief, is said to be stirring up the masses, while the government fails to explain why National Socialists haven't been suppressed.

Marquis of Creve.

The French press and public welcome the appointment of the Marquis of Creve as the new ambassador to France. He speaks French fluently and is said to understand the Gallic temperament.

Harry Kikuchi.

Harry Kikuchi, a student from Fukuoka, Japan, recently won the unanimous decision over forty American students in an oratorical contest at Beloit college, Beloit, Wis. He will represent his college in coming contests.

Prince Celasio Caetani.

Prince Celasio Caetani, an engineer by profession, soon will arrive in the United States to take up his new duties as ambassador from Italy. He was named by the Fascists.

Gladys Cooper.

Britishers saw one of their stage idols smashed recently when it became known that Gladys Cooper, reputed to be England's most beautiful actress, had divorced her husband, Capt. John Buckmaster. Until the divorce became public everyone thought the married life of the pair was ideal.

Joe Shugrue, left, who was forced from game by poor eyesight, and Johnny, his younger brother, who now faces the same fate.

Miss Pauline Norton.

Midnight tea-a-tetes of her husband with a comely lady of the chorus in a dark garage and a tearful scene in a Boston cafe when she pleaded the love of a man old enough to be her father, are the principal features of the divorce suit of Mrs. Margaret T. Heath against her husband, Gerald, former college professor and wealthy oil operator. The girl, Mr. Heath charges, was Pauline Norton.

Evening culture may be simple this season but extreme styles in hair ornaments make up for them. Here are two of the newest ideas for bandeaux and combs which are being shown. Plain shell in an intricate design makes the comb of huge proportions while black jet makes the effective bandeau.

Model 45

The Standard of Comparison

Driving Comfort in Winter

The Buick "Model 45" Six Cylinder—$1195

As complete as has been the development of the enclosed car, Buick designers have not neglected to improve the open type of car, building into it a measure of comfort, convenience and weather protection surpassed only by the more expensive closed vehicle.

Protection against wind and snow is assured by the snug-fitting storm curtains that open with the doors. The Buick design of storm curtains with a special weather strip provides a coziness, comparable to that of any closed car, while windshield wiper and tight fitting windshield, adjustable from within, make driving safe and comfortable.

Added to this, and equally important in winter driving, is the splendid performance that a Buick car always produces—its constant and surplus power—its roadability and perfect balance and its unquestioned dependability.

For cold weather driving there is no superior to the Buick open cars.

The Buick Line for 1923 comprises Fourteen Models:

	23-34	23-35	23-36
Fours	$855	$885	$1175
	23-37	$1395	$1325
Sixes	23-44	$1175	$1985
	23-45	$1195	$1895
	23-41	$1935	$1435
	23-42		$1675

When The Throttled-Down Engine "Misses"

It Is Usually A Question Of Leaks Of One Kind Or Another

WHEN AN ENGINE is rather closely throttled and occasionally or even rather frequently misses explosions, the reasons for its doing so are usually to be sought among the following: The intake passages may be of such incorrect design as to "starve" certain cylinders, when only a little mixture, moving very slowly, is passing through them and the temperature of these passages may be so low that, in conjunction with weak atomizing action at the carburetor, vaporization may be so incomplete that loading of the intake with liquid fuel takes place and this condensation so disturbs uniform carburation, that certain cylinders draw charges that will not ignite. Leaky valves, in conjunction with the high cylinder vacuum prevailing, may permit the drawing of so much exhaust gas on the suction stroke and the rejection of so much mixture on the compression stroke as to foul the charge much before the point of ignition. Leaky valves around the pistons may similarly lead to the pollution and diminution of the charges, so as to conspire in preventing their firing. Air may be leaking into the mixture, through loose connections in the intake system and making it too lean in gasoline to respond to the spark. With the throttle nearly closed, but a little mixture can enter the cylinder and it does not take much exhaust gas or air to make it too poor to fire. The low speed or the idling adjustment of the carburetor may be incorrectly set. Anything wrong with the ignition system may cause the missing of a throttled engine, but under this condition, and the slow speed which usually accompanies it, ignition is less liable to fail than under full throttle and high speed. Inadequate fuel feed rarely causes an engine to miss, when throttled away down, but anything that disturbs the quality of the very attenuated charges, which it then receives, is very likely to do so and the leaky engine is usually especially prone to irregular action.

PISTON-RING TROUBLE

H. T. B. writes: I think there is something wrong about the pistons in the front cylinder of my engine, because the spark-plug of this cylinder fouls very badly and because when I crank it over compression, there is a sound of sucking air and vapor is forced out of the breather opening. What is probably the matter with these rings and what is the remedy?

Answer: You better take out the piston and examine the rings and the cylinder wall. Possibly the rings are broken and require replacement. It may be that one or more rings are stuck in their grooves and thus fail to act, in which case they should be freed with kerosene. On the other hand, the rings may be loose in their grooves and thus leaky. If they are not worn bright all the way around, they do not fit properly and doubtless need replacement. In case you find the cylinder wall badly scratched or grooved or that the bore is much out of round, it is no use trying to make the cylinder tight with rings, until the bore is restored to a perfect condition.
